

QUALITY SYSTEMS, INC. RANKS FOURTH ON FORBES ANNUAL LIST OF AMERICA'S 200 BEST SMALL COMPANIES

IRVINE, Calif. ... December 1, 2008 ... Quality Systems, Inc. (NASDAQ: QSII), a developer of a range of information systems for automating medical and dental practices, announced today that the company ranked fourth in Forbes 2008 listing of America's 200 Best Small Companies list, moving up a notch from its fifth place position in 2007. The list appeared in the Forbes issue dated October 27, 2008.

To qualify for the lists, companies must have had sales of between $5 million and $750 million and a stock price of $5 as of Sept. 29, 2008. The ranking is based on return on equity, sales growth and profit growth over the past 12 months and also over five years. Forbes also compares a company's stock performance with that of its industry peers.

As listed in the Forbes story, Quality Systems' sales grew 39 percent, earnings per share rose 49 percent and return on equity increased 17 percent increase, on average during the past five years.

"We are pleased to be recognized by Forbes as one of the nation's best small companies, for eight consecutive years. Quality Systems has seen dramatic growth both organically and through acquisition, particularly during the past five years. I want to acknowledge the contributions of all our employees, which allowed us to achieve this stature. We continue to focus on developing superior products that help medical and dental practices to automate their businesses, better manage patient records, improve their collections and realize better efficiencies. We are gratified to be acknowledged by Forbes for the products and services we bring to the medical marketplace and for the growth and value we continue to deliver to shareholders," said Sheldon Razin, chairman of the board.
